Your Wellbeing

It is important to take care of yourself all the time, but especially at the moment as many people have found lockdown has taken a toll on both physical and mental health. Some ways to maintain your sense of wellbeing and keep yourself motivated are:

- Set a daily routine - Having a routine can be useful in times of uncertainty and stress as it can give you a sense of control. It can also improve your focus, organisation, and productivity. You may want to structure each hour of your day if that works best for you, or just make sure you have one thing planned for each morning, afternoon and evening that you try to stick to. Don't forget to schedule in some self-care time too – a hobby you enjoy, a relaxing bath, a phone call with a friend...
- Sleep well - Getting better sleep can have a positive impact on all aspects of your life. Find top tips at Teen Sleep Hub and Young Minds if you are struggling to regularly achieve a good nights sleep. Try the Headspace app and learn the essentials of meditation and mindfulness with their free Basics course.
- Be aware of your mental health – Find advice and practical tips to help you look after your mental health and wellbeing at Every Mind Matters and The Mix. If you are struggling and feel you may need some additional support, you may wish to access Kooth for free, safe and anonymous support online. You can also contact us on 07880480602 or via <https://www.upinbcp.co.uk/> and we will try to link you with appropriate support services locally.
- Focus on the positives and celebrate the little things. Maybe you went for a walk or did some exercise for the first time in a while, or you tidied up, or did something you've been putting off for weeks. Maybe you cooked a delicious dinner, made someone smile, finished reading a book or went to bed at a sensible time a few days in a row. Celebrate yourself! It's been a tough few months and you're getting through it one day at a time.

Careers Advice

- It can be hard to know where to begin with figuring out what you might want to do as a career. You can get in contact with us to talk through your ideas or to get advice.

There are also many online resources to help you start to figure this out:

- Take the Buzz Quiz to discover your strengths and personality traits
 - The National Careers Service offers a “Skills Assessment” which takes 5-10 minutes. It may help you to find out what interests and motivates you, identify your skills and find out what you can do with the skills you have
 - Look at career choices and what options are open to you at Career Pilot or use the ‘Career Planner’ and ‘Job Match’ features at Prospects
 - Barclays Life Skills has a range of interactive tools, films and activities to help you explore your skill set and prepare for the workplace. They also offer virtual work experience and offer a CV builder tool.
- Make sure your CV is up to date so that you are ready to apply for jobs or apprenticeships as they become available. You can call/text us on 07880480602 or email UPinBCP@bcpcouncil.gov.uk to book in an appointment with one of our advisors to update your CV, or for help with writing cover letters and filling in application forms.
 - If you have been applying for jobs or apprenticeships without success, reach out to the companies you’ve applied to and ask for feedback so you can make specific improvements for next time.
 - If you are hoping to find an apprenticeship, book on to Bournemouth and Poole College’s Apprenticeships Unlocked virtual event – 10th February 2021 – 5:30pm-8pm
 - If you are looking to get into a career in a trade, get ready by getting your CSCS Card so that you can apply for positions on construction sites. Currently offered online, this 5-day course is free to those not in Education, Employment or Training (NEET). Availability of free places on the course can vary from area to area. If you need help to prove you are NEET, please get in touch with us (07880480602 or email UPinBCP@bcpcouncil.gov.uk)

- Make sure you're interview ready by taking some time reading interview tips from Prospects and have a read of their employability advice:
 - To be as prepared as possible for the world of work do some research into the industry and sector you want to join, paying particular attention to companies of interest.
 - Keep up to date with preferred employers and to learn of vacancies follow them on social media.
 - Improve your online presence
 - Take a look at your social channels and ask yourself if they're employer-friendly. Employers do look at a candidate's social media channels to see whether they'd be a good fit for the job/company.
 - Adjust your privacy settings. If you don't want recruiters to be able to see your profiles make sure they're set to private.
 - If profiles are public delete any posts that could damage your chances of success, for example wild holiday pictures or posts containing controversial comments or bad language.
 - Like, comment and interact with employers and peers.
- Get inspiring advice and in-depth insights by listening to Future You, the careers podcast from Prospects <https://www.prospects.ac.uk/podcasts>

Free Online Courses

There is currently a wide range of free online courses being offered by different providers. By completing an online course, not only will you improve your knowledge of a certain subject, but you will also be able to improve your CV by listing it on there. You could learn a new language, develop your digital skills, or brush up specific skills related to the industry you would like to go into. Explore your options at The Skills Toolkit to find free courses to help you learn new skills, including general skills that apply to all sectors as well as more specialised skill. Also check out Open Learn, Future Learn, Hubspot or GoogleDigital.

Other Ideas

- Starting a new hobby demonstrates initiative and a passion for learning. It'll also help you occupy that tricky 'hobbies and interests' section of a CV or application form. You could start journaling or story writing, learn how to cook/bake, get outside and learn how to plant and grow, start a book club, take up yoga or jogging, or get creative with activities such as drawing, sewing or photography
- If you are in a position to learn to drive, get your driving theory up to scratch so you are ready to get on the road when restrictions are lifted. Take a practice theory test here: <https://www.gov.uk/take-practice-theory-test>
- Write a letter to your future self using Future Me. Write your letter, put in your email address and select whether you want it sent to you in 1 year, 3 years, 5 years or choose your own date. You could reflect on your time in lockdown and note your wishes for the future.

“Thinking and writing about the future - your future - is a powerful exercise. You can consider your dreams. Make some predictions. Write a resolution for the year. Even write a future letter as a form of therapy! There are some very smart people who have done studies that demonstrate the power of communicating with your future self. So send your future self some words of inspiration or comfort. Or make a prediction about your life, your family or the world. What will the future look like in a year, five years...more?”
